MEET THE PECULIAR FINNS

HELSINKI.FI/EXCHANGE

AND LEARN TO LOVE THEM

We Finns aren't the biggest chit-chatters and we don't feel the need to fill every silent moment in a conversation with blabber. This doesn't mean we aren't social – we are but in our own funny way. Genuine Finns usually mean what they say. We prefer a straight and honest approach, which explains why lots of people like to do business with us.

On the other hand, Finnish people love to tell tales and test the listener if they buy everything they are told. We giggle by ourselves and become happy when the listener realises we were only joking. This is a part of Finnish black humour and one shouldn't get offended by this sort of treatment – telling jokes and even laughing at someone's cost is our peculiar way of telling we like you. If you get invited to a Finnish home you have earned your place in a Finnish heart and are building up to a life-long friendship with a Finn!
